

NSW Council of Social Service
&
the National Women's Alliances

Present

A New Plan, A New Movement: Towards national action on women's economic empowerment in Australia

Tuesday March 21, 2017 at 10.30am

10th Floor, Church Center of the United Nations

NSW Council of Social Service and the National Women's Alliances have united business, government and civil society to chart a roadmap for change to ensure women and girls' economic empowerment throughout their life cycle.

Join us for an interactive in-conversation and Q&A with community and thought leaders on:

Learning from Indigenous communities & leaders

Finding common ground with business & government

Voices of young leaders

Targeted and innovative solution for marginalised women & girls

Chair: Lisa Witter, apolitical Founder

Panel members Tracy Howe, NSW Council of Social Service (NCOSS) CEO Keira Jenkins, A Gamillaroi Woman and member of Seven Sisters Indigenous Advisory Panel Hannah Gissane, National Women's Alliances Equality Rights Alliance

apolitical